Ken-Ducky Derby to benefits Harbor House of Louisville

Sep 29 2014 12:48AM ET

A portion of the Ohio River turned bright yellow Sunday afternoon, and it's all for a good cause. Mobile video Thousands of rubber ducks floated down the Ohio River for the 11th annual Ken-Ducky Derby. Every dollar raised goes directly toward HARBOR HOUSE of Louisville, a nonprofit group that supports people with physical, education, and developmental disabilities and their families. The owner of the winning duck took home a car. "We provide vocational, education, and socialization activities and programs and place them in jobs in the communities to work," said HARBOR HOUSE CEO Maria Smith. "And on site, we're just trying to be there and be all we can be for the folks that are overlooked and underserved." HARBOR HOUSE serves about 300 people in the community, but estimates there's about 30,000 people who have a need. WLKY's Monica Hardin emceed the event. WLKY is a proud media sponsor.

Kentucky Derby winner picks up new car

Oct 17 2014 04:46AM ET

LOUISVILLE, KY (WAVE) The man whose duck rode across the finish line first in the KENDUCKY DERBY picked up his winning ride on Thursday. Stephen Kelley is the proud new owner of a Honda Fit. The KENDUCKY DERBY benefits HARBOR HOUSE, a training and development center for adults with physical disabilities. Kelley has an uncle, who is a quadriplegic and said he understands the HARBOR HOUSE's mission. It hits close to home seeing him and the way that he is. People help people and it really is great, he said. Kelley adopted six of the nearly 20,000 rubber ducks that raced down the Ohio River in September.
