

Nachand Trabue

Nachand Hyde Trabue is a serial entrepreneur, an author, a non-profit executive and a brand strategist. She is also a certified life coach.

Nachand has an associate degree in Mass Communications and Media Studies from Western Kentucky University, a BS in Business Management from Indiana Wesleyan University, and a Master's in Business Communications from Spalding University. She also holds a Certificate in Project Management from the University of Louisville.

A serial entrepreneur, Nachand has founded the N'spire Network for Women Intl, co-founded the Smoketown Business Coalition and she is the Owner and CEO of Manhattan on Broadway, a premier event space in Louisville, Kentucky.

An author, Nachand published her first book Try God in June 2018. The book has launched a Try God lifestyle movement and Nachand has become a sought-after speaker and workshop facilitator.

In the non-profit realm, Nachand serves as Executive Director of the Bates Community Development Corporation, providing various charitable services to the community.

A brand strategist, Nachand provides consultative services as well as branding courses internationally.

Trabue sits on the following boards:

- Presentation Academy Alumnae Board
- Smoketown Wellness Center
- Bates Community Development Corporation

She is also a Kentucky Ambassador for Simmons College of Kentucky.

Nachand is also a member of the following associations:

- Professional Women's Network
- WKU Alumni Association
- Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc.

Recently, Nachand received the Outstanding Community Member Award for District 4 from the Louisville Metro Govt. She is also a graduate of the Focus Louisville Program sponsored by Leadership Louisville. Personally, Nachand is married to her husband Carlos, and the mother of four children. She loves to travel, decorate, and to encourage everyone she meets to Try God (Malachi 3)!

www.nachandtrabue.com