

BIO

Alexander Jones Jr., a residence of Jeffersontown Kentucky, has recently retired from Louisville Metro and Kentucky State Government, I was employed as a property analyst and relocation specialist. During my career I received numerous achievements awards, service awards and citations for exemplary public service. Among them, a Distinguish Citizenship and a Juvenile Justice System Award, for work done in the areas of community service and career development of young people. In 1987. I was commissioned a Kentucky Colonel by the honorable Martha Layne Collins. Alex was nominated for Leadership Louisville, Focus Louisville and Who's Who in Black Louisville and shared Outstanding Member Award from the 100 Black Men of Louisville.

Affiliations include the Louisville Urban League, YMCA Safe Place, and Life member, Louisville Branch NAACP. Alex currently is a member of the Louisville Paradox Group and serves as secretary for the Ye Ole Esquires Club, One of Louisville's oldest African American Male social clubs. The 100 Black Men of Louisville. Alex served as board member and Membership Chairperson for the 100 Black Men of Louisville. The organization mentors students within the Jefferson County Public Schools. He is a strong advocate for a wholesome education for students at all levels. Alex has participated on various committees and projects, including the African American Education Initiative. Has served as a delegate at National Conventions and Regional training seminars, presented by 100 Black Men of America.

As a former member of the First Baptist Church of Jeffersontown, I participated on many committees, taught Sunday School and served several years as Chairperson of the Trustee Board under the Pastorate of Rev. Thurmond Coleman Sr. Currently I serve in the Deacon's Ministry and teach the new member's orientation class at the First Virginia Avenue Baptist Church, under the Pastorate and leadership of Rev. Charles Henry Duncan Sr. I'm currently the owner of the "On Call Notary Service". A Notary Public, serving the state of Kentucky.

Alex attended Louisville Male High school, Western Kentucky University and graduated from University of Louisville's School of Business in 1981.

Alex is married to Antoinette Davis-Jones of Detroit Michigan. He has two sons, Aalics and Aaron, and two grandsons, Micah and Bryan.